

Scrum Product Owner / Agile Requirement Engineer (f/m/d)

Location: Erfurt

For more than 18 years companies of all sizes rely on HighCoordination's management and IT consulting to solve relevant BI, planning and digitalization challenges - efficient, modern and reliable.

Our web-based visualization solutions, which are used on various analysis and planning systems (QlikView, Qlik Sense, Microsoft PowerBI, Excel, Jedox), are mainly developed with technologies like JS, TypeScript, HTML5/SVG/CSS3 and Java.

What can you expect?

- As Scrum Product Owner you monitor the software product development in Erfurt from the planning to the releases and thus support the product manager
- In collaboration with stakeholders you develop a product vision and you are responsible for its step-by-step implementation
- You analyze, prioritize and coordinate requirements with stakeholders, check the feasibility with the team (e.g. in Confluence and JIRA), make sure that the right focus is set and thus optimize the business value of your product
- You work within a Scrum team directly with the software development team, you create user stories and prioritize the product backlog
- You make sure that the development team understands what the customer/user needs and why
- You use agile methods to live a continuous improvement process together with your Scrum team

Which requirements should you meet?

- Completed studies in economics or technology area
- Several years of work experience in agile requirements or product management, ideally as a Product Owner (SCRUM) or Project Manager, ideally in the area of Business Intelligence
- Strong analytical thinking, structured working skills and enjoying achieving measurable results
- Experience in developing web applications (JS, TypeScript, HTML5/SVG/CSS3)
- You enjoy working in a team and in a complex project environment
- High communication skills and moderation experience as well as a confident and customer-oriented appearance
